Managing Emergencies, Transforming Crises

In business as in life, the art of crisis management is not just a skill, it's a necessity. Every company, whatever its size, needs to be prepared for the unexpected. But how do rescue and service professionals approach crises? Here's a unique opportunity to find out! Join us in a real fire station for our "Managing emergencies, transforming crises" event. This exceptional gathering brings together experts from the emergency and service sectors to share, and allow us to compare and learn from their crisis management methods. Climate Change and Refugees: What Is the Role of Business?

Forced migration is a persistent and complex reality. Many refugees struggle to build a new life in their host country, find jobs, start their own business, or even access essential services. But wouldn't there be potential mutual benefits for businesses and their surrounding communities in welcoming, supporting and truly including refugees? Join us for this inspiring event with 2 HEC Paris professors: François Gemenne, Lead author, Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) and Marieke Huysentruyt, Academic Director of S&O Inclusive Economy Center and S&O Impact Company Lab. Organized by the UK Chapter. Register.
